A

AI quick capture

Photograph a whole tray in one shot. AI quick capture finds each piece and drafts a listing for it, with suggestions such as colour, style and occasion. Nothing is published until you review it.

Tip: Suggestions are drafts, not facts. Weight, making, stones, certificates and VAT stay yours to enter.

B

Bulk upload

Upload Excel or CSV files with 1 to 200 products each. Start from the template, and photos are matched to products by file name. Every row becomes an editable product card you check before publishing.

Tip: Name each photo after its product code, so photos match automatically.

Customers compare

Buyers can put up to four stores side by side and rank them by the final total or by the making charge. The gold value is the same for everyone, so a clear, fair making charge is how your store wins the comparison.

Delivery

You choose how orders reach customers: your own staff or a courier you appoint, and customers can always collect from your store. Set a delivery charge for each emirate. It is charged once per order and shown before the customer sends a request.

Enhance photos

One tap cleans up a product photo: background removed, a clean cream background, square framing and light brightness only. Colours are never changed. You choose Accept or Keep original, and your original is always kept.

Founding store

Founding stores list on Get Gold free for life: no listing fee, no subscription and no commission, including none on your making charge. Founding places are limited, so ask whether places are still open.

Get approved

We review your trade licence and business details before your store goes live. Trade licence and Emirates ID copies are optional on the first application; you can upload them later from your vendor dashboard.

Hallmark and listing evidence

Listings must show the true weight, karat, hallmark and any certificate, with photos you have the right to use. These details are checked, and inaccurate or out-of-date listings can be paused.

I

Identity-checked buyers

Every buyer passes an identity check before an order reaches you: Emirates ID or passport, plus a live selfie. You see that the check passed, not the ID images. Your own legal duties to check, record or report a sale still apply.

Keep what you sell

Customers pay Get Gold a small service fee: 1% of the merchandise price, half that on their first three orders. It is shown on its own line and never reduces the amount for your goods or delivery. When a customer pays you directly, you pass the fee to Get Gold under the process agreed in writing.

Live gold rate

Your gold value updates with the market. Prices follow one shared 24K reference rechecked every 10 seconds, so you set the making charge once and the price stays current all day.

Making charge

You set the making charge for every piece, as a number in AED. Customers see it on its own line next to the gold value, so it's easy to understand and easy to compare.

Next steps on every order

A customer sends a request and passes the ID check. You confirm availability and the final price. The customer accepts, which starts a payment window and holds the piece. You confirm the money has arrived in your own account before you prepare the order.

Tip: Prepare an order only once the money shows in your own account.

Offers on making

Run an offer on a piece's making charge, as a percentage with an end date. Customers who saved that piece are told about it, which brings them back.

Tip: An end date gives buyers a reason to decide now.

Payments to you

Customers pay your store directly. Cash and card at handover work from the start; bank transfer and Aani are offered only after we approve your payment details, and any change is reviewed again.

Quote the final price

Each request shows the time you have to reply. Confirm that the piece is available and its final current price, or decline if you can't supply that exact item. The customer then accepts or cancels.

Tip: Reply quickly: a request expires when its deadline passes.

Requests from buyers

Buyers who can't find a piece describe it once: type, purity, budget, emirate and deadline, often with a reference image. Approved stores reply with an item-specific offer and can link a ready listing so the buyer can check out.

Seller of record

You are the seller. You own the stock, set your making charges, confirm availability and the final price, issue the invoice and handle refunds, exchanges and warranty under UAE rules.

Trust checks

Buyers trust what they can check: licensed stores, reviewed listings, an itemised price, protection from old prices, a stock lock so two people can’t reserve your last piece, and reviews only from real purchasers.

Up-to-date stock

Keep quantities and availability current. Out-of-date or inaccurate listings can be paused, and every confirmed order keeps the exact market snapshot used to price it.

Verified reviews

Only customers who completed a purchase can leave a review, and you can reply. Reviews are moderated separately from courier performance.

Working hours

Set the days and hours you are open, in UAE time. Requests that arrive while you are closed wait until you open, so none are lost overnight.

Tip: Update your hours before public holidays.

eXposure across the UAE

Your pieces are online 24/7 for customers in all seven emirates, priced live, with your store’s name on every listing.

Your store page

Every store gets its own page with its listings, area and verification. Founding stores carry a Founding store badge.

Zero lock-in

You may stop listing at any time. The signed Vendor Pre-Agreement is the binding document; if it differs from this guide, the agreement applies.
